The Editor's Bit

The Premiership season is over, which means we have a winner in our Premiership Predictions League, sponsored by British General Stores. If you want to know how you got on, the final table is on page 29.

A few of you took a guess at which park we featured on last month's cover, but nobody came up with the correct answer. Well, it's the Erasmus Park in Bos & Lommer, taken from a spot that not many people visit, but just around the corner from where we live. So, no winners in that competition, which is just as well, because we didn't have a prize.

No prizes for guessing where the terraces on this month's cover are either; now that the summer is here, we are featuring them as a service to our sun worshipping readers.

Another service for our readers is the new Bar Jobs column on page 31. We will have Jobs Vacant ads, which are free to our sponsors, and we will also accept Jobs Wanted ads from anybody in possession of a social hygiene certificate. Sorry, but we won't be accepting adverts for non horeca related jobs at the moment. If you want your advert in the next Stun, contact me at the address on the right.

All of our usual stuff is here this month, with loads of photos from around bars, plus pictures from no less than three 50th birthday parties, so enjoy your Stun.

Isn't the weather great! I've been out on the bike on short trips, because that's all I seem to be able to handle, but I'm determined to make it to town just to sit on a terrace and watch the world walk past. On the cover this month are some of our favourite places in Amsterdam. Some catch the sun early, some have the late afternoon-early evening sun, and even a few with very little direct sunshine. So whatever time you're in town, if you want to grab a seat in or out of the sun, just to rest your wary feet & have some refreshment, you don't have to look far. There are ten terraces we've selected for you, but if you know some real nice ones, let us know!

Missed quite a few parties this month (but

Alec had a shindig in the Highlander, and I would have kissed him had I been there, but I wasn't, so I made him a birthday-button to make sure he got well kissed by everybody! (Andy was there to take photo's, as he was with Frank's and Keith's 5-0, because it's a day well worth to remember).

Carla doesn't work as much as she used to, so she's got more time for her family. Here she's out & about with daughter Joyce & granddaughter Jade.

GUTTER

Terry, Cathy & Joost were also at the Rugby-7 tournament (page 12). Joost looks older than he is, with his grey whiskers. Must have had a dog's life!

In restaurant Kamasutra, Vijay feeds & entertains his family, who were over from Glasgow for a weekend. They all agreed: Best curry this side of the channel, tastes like home cooking!

And of course, Vijay did take the familiar recipes with him when he moved to Amsterdam, so that we could enjoy home-cooked Indian (with a Scottish twist?).

Something else to remember: Sign a donor-codicil! In retrospect I'm sorry I didn't watch the Donor-Show on BNN, but I happened to be zapping there at the moment where the presenter said "Here I have to stop the programme, because....". Before the outcome of the brilliant hoax, many people found the idea distasteful; I actually had no problem with it (well, I am Dutch!). When everybody involved knows the bottom line, go for it! But in this case, they have achieved exactly what they set out to do, i.e. get publicity for the donor-shortage-problem.

Think about this: You or one of your loved ones needs an organ-transplant. There's a long waiting list, and everybody who signed a 'permission to recycle document' will come before you. Think about it!

And so it should be. We have to recycle; we waste too much. The endangered species list is getting too long.

Not just species (flora & fauna) are in danger of extinction, some good old values like freedom of speech, freedom to practice any religion without fear of persecution, tolerance towards other cultures than your own, I could go on & on.

A lot of people are touchy, impolite, disrespectful, arrogant, ignorant etc.

And you know what really pisses me off? The inquisition-like witch-hunt to eradicate one of nature's best creations: The magic weed! Because Balkenende & his cronies kiss Europe ass, Amsterdam is in danger of losing its unique position in the world. Governments the world over refuse to even look at all the beneficial qualities of the weed, keeping it in a criminal sphere, therefore forcing Amsterdam to get rid of the coffee-shops. I think it's time for all the weed-lovers of the world to unite.

Dear Dorothy

Dear Dorothy,

I do not have health insurance and my E111 expired in 2002. I need to have two front teeth extracted and urgent surgery for piles. I was wondering if they have any training colleges here in Holland where I could get the work done on the cheap.

Ron the Plumber

06-3232323 (no job too small)

Dear Ron,

Two front teeth, you say? I reckon if you go to a regular hardcore Dutch brown cafe on a Friday night, stand by the bar and if it's busy, just shout out "Andre Hazes was a wanker, and couldn't sing to save his life." That should take care of your dental treatment. For the piles, I spoke with an old vet friend of mine; he assures me that it's pretty much the same as docking a corgi's tail. Wrap an elastic band tightly around the protruding piles and after a few weeks they should fall off.

Dorothy.

P.S. If the British Shop is still sponsoring this - use TCP afterwards...

Dear Dorothy,

Is it true you can get diseases from wearing other people's clothes? My friend Debbie said she got chlamydia from a pair of second hand jeans. Does boiling clothes first help, before you wear them?

Yours sincerely

Sharon.

Dear Sharon,

Never wear other people's clothes. There is proof now available that wearing someone else's clothes also diminishes your own individual personality. When one million people all wear the same shirt belonging to this Tommy bloke, it's hard for older people to distinguish you from each other. And if Debbie says that's where she got her problem infection, then we should all be very careful. I'd recommend wearing your own clothes and not lend any to Debbie. Tell Debbie to wash her clothing on boil cycle using only DETTOL and water.

Dorothy.

Dear Dorothy,

I have a rather unsightly birth mark on my cheek, which is clearly visible. Is there an alternative to surgery to remove it?

Roger Tripp

Diemen.

Dear Roger,

A Cornish pasty might help, or eating Scottish Square sausage worked for me. It should be said that people taking no less than 330ml of Lucozade a day have very English rose complexions. Use grape nuts as an exfoliate, or if they run out, Maldon sea salt.

Dorothy.

RUGBY SEVENS

Café Corso had a great weekend at the Heineken Amsterdam Sevens.

In the veteran 10's competition, Corso Marauders, who won last year, made it through to the final, where they were beaten 28-5 by Wooden Spoon, who had some old Marauders playing for them.

The Corsolettes got knocked out in the quarter-finals of the ladies Pier competition by Canada, 36-5. The final between Richmond and Wooden Spoon was briefly interrupted by a streaker.

In the men's Pier competition, Susie's Saloon made it as far as the last 16, Susie's Exiles reached the quarter-finals, but Corso Marauders went all the way to the final, where they met Samurai, who were going for a hat-trick. Marauders opened the scoring, but twice failing to convert cost them dearly and they lost the match 21-17.

A lot of the Corso regulars turned out to cheer on the teams.

Samurai have had their fun, now Corso boss James wants the Marauders to reclaim the Pier trophy, and the whole team are with him!

WHAT'S ON

Finnegan's Rainbow will be holding their next monthly Pub Quiz on Saturday 16th June. It's open to a maximum of seven teams of five and Marjolein will put you together with other players if you haven't got a full team. It costs €5 per head to enter, but places are limited, so advance booking is recommended.

Singer/songwriter Ciaran Wynne is heading back to Canada to finish off his new album, but before he goes, he'll be playing a final two nights in Molly Malone's on Friday 8th and Saturday 9th June.

Yellowdogs played a great set at Frank's birthday party (page 22) and they'll be back in the Waterhole on Friday 29th June.

Robby the singing barman's old friends Rene and Marlon dropped into Tig Barra while he was working, so they had a jam.

There's swinging 50's rock & roll from Blue Moon Special in Maloe Melo on Saturday 30th June.

ALEC'S BIG 5-0

Alec, known to his family and friends as Monkey, celebrated his 50th birthday in the Old Highlander, where his big sister Ann works. Yes, it was another gathering of the McGuire clan.

The sisters were over in February, so this time it was the turn of the McGuire brothers to hit town.

Far to many people there to mention by name, but we all had a good time.

Keith thought he was in for a quiet 50th birthday, but Jo was having none of that. She organised a surprise party for him and invited all of his friends

Keith was stunned to see his oldest friend Junior at the party; they've known each other for 46 years.

One of the presents Keith recieved was a parachute jump on Texel

It was like a Coco's reunion, with Ken, Lin, Pete, Mark and Chris there.

Owen and Toosh were there too.

DJ Phil, who mixed some CD's for the party, was propping up the bar with Paddy and his brother Ciaran.

Karen was bringing the food round and Rene was helping to eat it.

First time we've seen Ken and Vince since Mister Coco's closed.

JOKES

With Guest Jokers: Lin, Tommy & Jane

A Mormon was seated next to an Irishman on a flight from London. After the plane was airborne, drink orders were taken. The Irishman asked for a whiskey, which was promptly brought and placed before him.

The flight attendant then asked the Mormon if he would like a drink.

He replied in disgust, "I'd rather be savagely raped by a dozen whores than let liquor touch my lips."

The Irishman then handed his drink back to the attendant and said, "Me too, I didn't know we had a choice!"

A thief in Paris planned to steal some paintings from the Louvre. After carefully planning, he got past security, stole the paintings and made it safely to his van. However, he was captured only two blocks away when his van ran out of gas. When asked how he could mastermind such a crime and then make such an obvious error, he replied:

"Monsieur, that's the reason I stole the paintings. I had no Monet to buy Degas to make the Van Gogh."

A gentleman asked a waiter to take a bottle of Merlot to an attractive woman he spotted dining alone. The waiter took the Merlot to the woman and said, "This is from the gentleman seated over there," indicating the sender.

She regarded the wine coolly for a second, not looking at the man, and decided to send a reply note to the man. The waiter, who was lingering for a response, took the note from her and conveyed it to the gentleman.

The note read: For me to accept this bottle, you need to have a Mercedes in your garage, a million dollars in the bank, and 7 inches in your pants."

After reading the note, the man decided to compose one of his own in return. He folded the note, handed it to the waiter and instructed him to return this to the woman.

It read: For your information, I have a Ferrari Maranello, a BMW Z8, a Mercedes CL600 and a Porsche Turbo in my garage. There is over twenty million dollars in my bank account. But, not even for a woman as beautiful as you, would I cut three inches off. Just send the bottle back."

A lady goes to her priest one day and tells him. "Father, I have a problem. I have two female parrots, but they only know how to say one thing."

"What do they say?" the priest inquired.

They say, "Hi, we're hookers! Do you want to have some fun?"

"That's obscene!" the priest exclaimed. Then he thought for a moment.

"You know," he said, "I may have a solution to your problem. I have two male talking parrots, which I have taught to pray and read the Bible. Bring your two parrots over to my house, and we'll put them in the cage with Francis and Peter. My parrots can teach your parrots to praise and worship, and your parrots are sure to stop saying ... that phrase in no time."

"Thank you," the woman responded, "this may very well be the solution."

The next day, she brought her female parrots to the priest's house. As he ushered her in, she saw that his two male parrots were inside their cage holding rosary beads and praying. Impressed, she walked over and placed her parrots in with them.

After a few minutes, the female parrots cried out in unison: "Hi, we're hookers! Do you want to have some fun?"

There was stunned silence.

Shocked, one male parrot looked at the other male parrot and exclaimed, "Put the beads away, Frank, our prayers have been answered!"

BEING FRANK ON FOOTBALL

By the time this goes to print we will know whether Steve McClaren is still in a job or not. The thought of England losing to Estonia is unthinkable. If that were to happen, then he would be forced to resign, but I do not think this will occur. The likelihood is that England will win and win comfortably and anything less than that would be a huge disappointment. Even a draw would do untold damage to their hopes of qualification for the Euro 2008 finals. They have already dropped too many points and if this happened then McClaren would find his position bordering on untenable. For the Scots however, it is an entirely different story and although they are in arguably the toughest group of all, they are playing with the sort of confidence and self-belief not seen over the border for many a year. Scotland are in transition, but have had encouraging results and performances of late, which should bode well for the future. Shaun Maloney is making his debut and I fancy him to perhaps get on the score sheet. He is a very attacking midfielder with a good eye for goal and the way that Scotland are playing just now, you would fancy them to win quite handsomely against the Faroe Islands. That said however, we must not underestimate the opposition too much, because they only lost narrowly to Italy by two goals to one a few days ago and they will be going into this match with renewed confidence, I would suspect.

Changing the subject completely now; on the grounds that by the time you read the opening paragraph it is already old news, perhaps this is a good time to reflect on the new kids on the Premiership block and their chances of surviving in the top flight next season. Personally I think that Sunderland will fair far better on their return than they did two seasons ago. Roy Keane has worked wonders at the helm in his short term of office and he has so many good contacts in the game that I expect him to strengthen in all departments in the coming weeks. He has already had some pre-season disappointments though, with Manchester United 's Jonny Evans already stating that he is not interested in rejoining Sunderland after the completion of his loan spell at the Stadium Of Light. He would prefer instead to fight for his place in the Old Trafford squad with the intention of breaking into the first team before too long. Roy Keane has a very supportive chairman in Niall Quinn, who has promised money and players very soon. "We are working very hard at this. These things take time." Birmingham, on the other hand, might find the going a bit harder. They were not always very consistent in the Championship and they must break this bad habit before the new season begins, otherwise they will be found wanting. Personally, I believe they may go down again, but I am not convinced that Derby County will. Yes, they came up via the play-offs, but this league is extraordinarily competitive and they have a fighting spirit that will enhance their chances of staying put. The key to their survival probably hinges on whether Rams boss Billy Davies stays in charge. He is having itchy feet at the moment, but in reality I cannot see him moving to a bigger Premiership club just now, so the chances are he will stick around.

'Little old wine drinking me' said in an interview recently that he has no intention of calling it quits at Old Trafford. "There is a time when I will retire, but I have no idea when that is." Obviously Sir Alex feels that the key to this is his state of health. "My health is a consideration, but I feel good at the moment and that is a determining factor in my decision to carry on." Let's face it; he is still relatively young. Sir Bobby Robson, who is working with Steve Staunton and Ireland, must be at least ten years older, but who's counting.

And finally, my warmest congratulations go out to John Raftery, who for the third time in the last four has won the Premiership Prediction League! This is quite a feat and justice will be seen to be done. This is the first time a prize has been awarded to the winner, so in his case at least, it has been long overdue. To see where you finished in the league table it is over to our Ed. who will tell us more...

Premiership Predictions League 2006/2007 Final Table

What can I say? He did it again. The prize of a hamper of goodies from British General Stores goes to John Raftery, who lives in England. As it would be silly sending British stuff to him, Lin has generously offered to send him something special from Holland instead.

Anyway, here's the final table and if your name is not John, better luck next time.
