The Editor's Bit

I thought most of our readers were bar flies, but judging by the entries we got for last month's crossword puzzle, a lot of you like a nice cup of tea too. Loads of you e-mailed the correct answer (Let's All Wish For A Long, Hot Summer), but only one could win the prize of a two month supply of tea from British General Stores. Congratulations Glenys Emblem, your name was first out of the hat. I'll contact you about your prize.

The May crossword was a bit of a stinker and we didn't get any entries, so nobody won the bottle of whisky donated by London Bridge English Pub. Don't worry, the prize hasn't been lost; you've got another chance to win it this month. So, get puzzling and send your answer in; you've got to be in it to win it.

Even though the start of the Premier League season is still five weeks away, it's time to start thinking about entering our Premier Predictions League. To give you more incentive to enter, the winner will receive a prize of 2 x €30 vouchers for food &/or drink at Coco's Outback. You can find the entry form on page 23 and on our website, once I've figured out how to make it.

No so many pages this month, we went to England for a week (see Tales from the Gutter), but all of our usual stuff is here, so enjoy your Stun and try to check out the Cool Globes in Westerpark; they're there until the 25th September.

TALES FROM THE

Happy Anniversary Vicky & Ray, Kristie & Peter.

Last month was my birthday, too. I didn't have a party; I fancied a quiet day so I only asked my friend Olly and my sister in law Ans. But my sister paid us a surprise visit, too!

She had her daughter phone us (early!) to make sure we were home, and hopped on the train. She'd never been to our new house before, and I haven't been to visit her since she moved house.

So I guess it's my turn next.

In the meantime a whole other visit was in the making. Andy's sister Bonnie was coming over from New Zealand, via Hong Kong to England, travelling together with cousin Roger and his wife Lesley to help arrange an extensive family reunion. Andy with his sisters, (left to right) Lynne, Brenda, Bonnie, Jill and the youngest, Kay.

A day or so before Bonny arrived we had a quiet couple of hours in a beer garden in rural Kent, discussing the last things that had to be done before seventy (or more!) family members would arrive in Kay's back-garden on Sunday!

The 'Amsterdam' table at the reunion: Roxanne, Ans, Andy and me, with Bonnie & Brenda.

The days before the reunion saw some sunshine every day, but for the rest it was quite chilly and wet, so we were all keeping our fingers crossed for Sunday. And it worked! It was a glorious Sunday, and everybody enjoyed the family reunion so much, there's been talk about another one already!

The day after the party there was a storm coming, so Andy helped to clear the garden, using the tractor to shift the heavy stuff.

And the day after that we were invited to Jessica's seventh birthday party. We'd initially booked outside at the Cricketers, but the weather was not too good at all. Luckily the staff managed to find our party (of thirteen!) a table (for thirteen!) inside. Jessica was still unwrapping her (many) presents, with big brother Jack & great-aunts Jill, Kay & Bonnie making sure she didn't miss any.

Jessica looked like a fairy tale princess, dinner was good, a great time was had by all

The weekend of the reunion coincided with "Who Said Chickens Can't Fly 2011" which saw 4 planes stuffed with 16 Charity Chicken Sky-divers take to the sky over Texel. They each raised a minimum of €500 which will aid the Ukrainian Down Syndrome Association. Well Done!

WARD around MOESSTRAAT CENTRUM

A couple of old Waterhole barmen, Lazlo and Thijs, were listening to old Waterhole musicians playing in the Old Quarter.

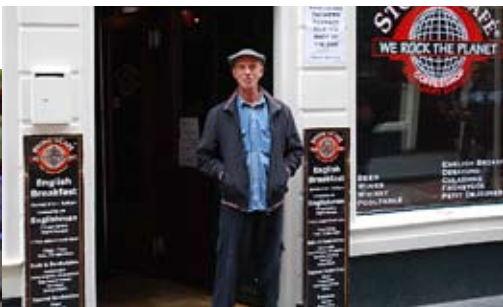

Natalie and Suus were getting in the party mood in the Stone's Café before heading off to Sensation White...

Outside the Old Quarter: Deborah, Beth and Some Band taking a break.

Leaving Bianca and Wendy hard at work behind the bar.

Matt and Kirsty are expecting a baby on the 7th August; he's nervous as f!

Wim only works 'til 4, which probably explains why we haven't seen him on the door of the Stone's Café for so long.

WHAT'S ON

Every Tuesday is Magic Gumball and Open Mic night in CC Muziek Café, featuring five different acts doing a 45 min. set, covering all genres of performing arts. Poetry, stand-up, illusion, rap, rock; who know's what surprises are in store when you drop in. Zou Zou Zzings had the audience captivated on my last visit and will be back on stage on Tuesday 12th July.

Julius E. Green always puts his heart & soul into the Blues session he hosts in the Waterhole every Tuesday night.

Who says white men can't play the Blues? Get to Marcel's Blues & Rock session in Maloe Melo and you'll soon change your mind.

There's no Last Tuesday Open Podium in Molly Malone's this month, but it will be back in August, with Tamira taking over from Neil.

Peter Carroll is back and he'll be playing in Molly's on Friday 15th & Saturday 16th July.

JOKES

With our Guest Jokers: Mitch & anon

An old man and woman were married for many years, even though they hated each other. When they had a confrontation, screaming and yelling could be heard deep into the night. The old man would shout, "When I die, I will dig my way up and out of the grave and come back and haunt you for the rest of your life!" Neighbours feared him. They believed he practiced black magic, because of the many strange occurrences that took place in their neighbourhood. The old man liked the fact that he was feared.

To everyone's relief, he died of a heart attack when he was 98. His wife had a closed casket at the wake. After the burial, she went straight to the local bar and began to party, as if there was no tomorrow.

Her neighbours, concerned for her safety, asked, "Aren't you afraid that he may indeed be able to dig his way up and out of the grave and come back to haunt you for the rest of your life?"

The wife put down her drink and said, "Let him dig. I had him buried upside down..."

A Swiss guy, looking for directions, pulls up at a bus stop where two Englishmen are waiting. "Entschuldigung, koennen Sie Deutsch sprechen?" he says. The two Englishmen just stare at him.

"Excusez-moi, parlez vous Francais?" The two continue to stare. "Parlare Italiano?" No response, "Hablan ustedes Espanol?" Still nothing. The Swiss guy drives off, extremely disgusted.

The first Englishman turns to the second and says, "Y'know, maybe we should learn a foreign language...."

"Why?" says the other, "That bloke knew four languages, and it didn't do him any good."

One day, a mom was cleaning her son's room and in the closet she found a bondage S&M magazine. This was highly upsetting for her. She hid the magazine until his father got home and showed it to him.

He looked at it and handed it back to her without a word.

She finally asked him, "Well what should we do about this?"

The dad looked at her and said, "Well I don't think you should spank him."

A rather attractive woman goes up to the bar in a quiet rural pub. She gestures alluringly to the barman who comes over immediately. When he arrives, she seductively signals that he should bring his face close to hers. When he does so, she begins to gently caress his beard, which is full and bushy. "Are you the landlord?" she asks, softly stroking his face with both hands.

"Actually, no" he replies.

"Can you get him for me? I need to speak to him," she asks, running her hands up beyond his beard and into his hair.

"I'm afraid I can't", breathes the barman - clearly aroused. "Is there anything I can do?"

"Yes there is. I need you to give him a message", she continues huskily, popping a couple of fingers into his mouth and allowing him to suck them gently. "Tell him that there is no toilet paper in the ladies room."

BEING FRANK ON FOOTBALL

The new football season in this part of Europe is but a month away and I guess you, like me, cannot wait for the action to commence! My wife thinks I should have grown out of it by now, but any discerning football aficionado knows only too well that when football gets into your blood stream, it is more addictive than heroine. Ask for example Andre Villas-Boas, the new manager of Chelsea or Sir Alex F and they will explain in no uncertain terms that it is the reason they were planted on this planet. The late great Bill Shankly once said that winning was more important than mere life and death, and some other larger than life people in the sport have even died on the job, as was the case with Jock Stein.

I am not suggesting for one moment however that football is not changing. Perhaps evolving is a better word? Yes, we all know that there is too much money in the sport and we no longer have a level playing field, but the passion that is personified on a football field is just as intense as ever and so too is the controversy. F.I.F.A. of course - along with other pretentious football authorities, continue to bring the game into disrepute, but our love of the game of football remains untarnished. I think however for football to genuinely evolve, these governing bodies must embrace change. Not just for change's sake, but because there is so much money in the game it is criminal to neglect this new technology.

Look for example at Wimbledon the other week and how being able to challenge a decision added to the overall suspense and this renewed level of tension gives the game a new dimension. The same goes for rugby and even cricket, so there really is no excuse to resist the inevitable. Once Blatter and his gang of cronies are finally found out, the game can move on with renewed vigour and vitality and hopefully too, with a greater sense of football purpose.

Both here in the Netherlands and back in the UK, players have returned from their summer recess. Ajax has been steadily recruiting, along with P.S.V., who got a handout from the local council and have gleefully spent most of it! Feyenoord are still in the mire, it would seem, but Twente are feeling optimistic once more, with a new coach and some new players.

In England, Chelsea are also feeling brand spanking new! Andre Villas-Boas was never much of a footballer, but his coaching expertise was realised at a very early age by Sir Bobby Robson when he was managing Porto. Apparently, he shared the same apartment block as this young whippersnapper, who at sixteen was critical of the ways Mr. Robson was doing things. He became so frustrated in fact, that he decided to tell him all about it in a letter which he personally delivered at his door. He pointed out not only why Robson's team selections were wrong, but provided him with an overwhelming amount of statistical data to back up his case! Mr. Robson was so impressed that he rang the then manager of Ipswich, George Burley, and suggested he should spend some time at Town. Burley agreed and he spent a few months at the Plyfield training ground with the Ipswich youths. Apparently, he was not much good at football, so they always put him in goal, but his knowledge of the game was such that he made an immediate impression. The rest, as they say, is football history. I guess that is where he learned his English too, although I am not sure whether all of it would find its way into an English dictionary! At the ripe old age of 33, he is not afraid of taking on one of the most demanding jobs in English football and from a personal perspective, I wish him well.

And now our Ed will tell you why there is more incentive than ever to enrol in this year's PREMIER PREDICTIONS LEAGUE!

Marie and Amy were at the opening of the Skycave extension in Coco's Outback's former booze store.

So were Mark and birthday boy Adriaan.

Adriaan was also in the bar downstairs, having a beer with Neil, who's left Amsterdam and gone back to Scotland.

IN THE BACK

Uni and her Ukelele put on a Saturday night show in the Jet Lounge.

Also on the bill that night; a four-piece Monty Pagan.
