It's always nice to see Ank behind the bar whenever I drop into Proeflokaal de Ooievaar.

It's been over two years since Alena and Ema last appeared in the Stun; they are two of the few bar staff in the Waterhole that I know from before the first lockdown.

Jen, Shakira and Jurrien were having a great time behind the bar at the Christmas Party in Café Oporto (see pages 18 & 19).

Jess, Emma, Kaitlyn and Hannah were on the floor when I paid a rare Sunday afternoon visit to Coco's Outback.

The Editor's Bit

There's no Cover Competition this month; I decided to go with the New Year's fireworks and drone show over the IJ, which took place two days later than planned because it was too windy on New Year's Eve.

For last month's Cover Competition, we have to give the Honourable Mention to Brian Krijger, who knew straight away that it was located on the Jodenbreestraat. He just happened to be working in the first bar I delivered the last Stun to (De Blauwe Druif) and lives just around the corner from where the artwork, Zuildragende Schildpad, is located.

Before I go any further and risk running out of space, Janice from Café Oporto is now a granny; her daughter Zoe gave birth to little Nelly on Monday 2nd January.

Talking of births, this October will see the 30th anniversary of the Amsterdam Stun making its first appearance in local bars, so I'll be milking this opportunity as much as possible. I'm still in contact with most of the people who were in that very first edition, so I hope those that are still with us can get here in October, but where's Mandy? If any of my old orange picking friends read this, come on over for the party because it's also close to the 40th anniversary of the year I didn't go to Nafplion!

After hearing that the New York Times was slammed for publishing a swastika-shaped crossword, one of our readers thought last month's Stun Crossword looked a bit dodgy. Luckily, our unintentional swastika faces the opposite way to the Nazi Hakenkreuz, but I'll keep an eye out for that sort of thing in future.

Apologies for not having any photos from our friends in Hotel Torenzicht this month but all of our usual stuff is here so enjoy your Stun!

ROUND T

Myron, Addy, Rijk, Max and Harrold were in the Poolbar the night before New Year's Eve.

Somebody suggested I call these regulars alcoholics, but that can't be true; alcoholics go to meetings and these guys were just enjoying the fine selection of beers from Asperius Brewery available in Café Havelaar.

Far too many names to mention in these photos sent to me by Rob from the Poolbar.

How could I not take a photo of Carlos and Victoria when I saw them in Maloe Melo!

THE BARS

I don't know who these people with Bobby are, but I'm sure they were having a good time; Hairy Zack and his Trunk Like Members were playing in Molly Malone's.

Bumped into Jessica, Ariana and Neil in the street; they'd just left H. Murray's while I was on my way there.

There was no room on the best table in Molly Malone's, but Remco and Fiona were ready to pounce if anybody left.

It's not often we see Bev out late at night, so she must have been enjoying the live music in Molly Malone's.

I dropped into H. Murray's to wish Steve a Happy New Year but my camera focussed on his finger instead of his face!

Christmas was approaching so it would have been rude to say no to a beer from Nathalie in the Smoking Bull, and take a photo.

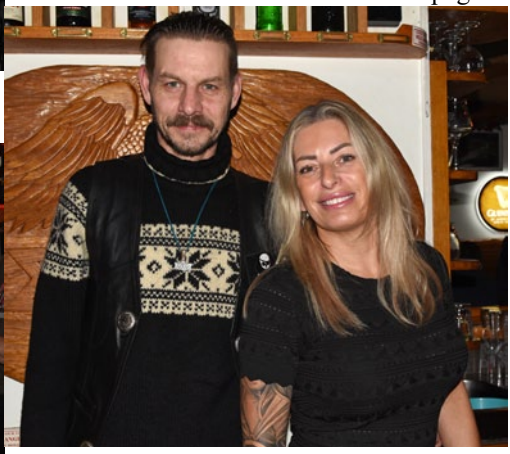
Don't ask me why, but it's been over six month's since we last had a photo of Zad from Excalibur in the Stun!

His Excalibur colleagues Jordy and Gen have both appeared more recently.

My favourite barman, Jur, turns 80 this year. To celebrate the occasion, acts who have played in Maloe Melo will be in Paradiso on Sunday 29th January to thank this legend of live music in Amsterdam. More info on page 5.



Apologies to everyone who's missed seeing Louise in the Stun recently, but here she is with Daniel, behind the bar in Susie's Saloon.

After getting all of Pope Francis's luggage loaded into the limo, the driver notices that the Pope is still standing on the curb. 'Excuse me, Your Holiness,' says the driver, 'Would you please take your seat so we can leave?'

'Well, to tell you the truth,' says the Pope, 'they never let me drive at the Vatican, and I'd really like to drive today.'

'I'm sorry but I cannot let you do that; I'd lose my job! And what if something should happen?' protests the driver, wishing he'd never gone to work that morning.

'There might be something extra in it for you,' says The Pope.

Reluctantly, the driver gets in the back as the Pope climbs in behind the wheel. The driver quickly regrets his decision when, after exiting the airport, the Pontiff floors it, accelerating the limo to 105 mph.

'Please slow down, your Holiness!' pleads the worried driver, but the Pope keeps the pedal to the metal until they hear sirens. 'Oh, dear God, I'm gonna lose my licence,' moans the driver.

The Pope pulls over and rolls down the window as the cop approaches, but the cop takes one look at him, goes back to his motorcycle, and gets on the radio. 'I need to talk to the Chief,' he says to the dispatcher.

The Chief gets on the radio and the cop tells him that he's stopped a limo going a hundred and five.

'So bust him,' says the Chief.

'I don't think we want to do that - he's really important,' said the Cop.

The Chief exclaimed, 'All the more reason!'

'No, I mean really important,' said the cop.

The Chief then asked, 'Who have you got there, the Mayor?'

Cop: 'Bigger.'

Chief: 'Governor?'

Cop: 'Bigger.'

'Well,' said the Chief, 'Who is it?'

Cop: 'I think it's God!'

Chief: 'What makes you think it's God?'

Cop: 'He's got the Pope as a chauffeur!'

JOKES

A deaf couple get married and during the first week of marriage, they find that they are unable to communicate in the bedroom when they turn off the lights because they can't see each other using sign language.

After several nights of fumbling around and misunderstandings, the wife proposes a solution: "Honey," she signs, "Why don't we agree on some simple signals? For instance, at night, if you want to have sex with me, reach over and squeeze my left breast one time. If you don't want to have sex, reach over and squeeze my right breast one time."

The husband thinks this is a great idea and signs back to his wife, "Great idea! Now if you want to have sex with me, reach over and pull on my penis one time. And if you don't want to have sex, reach over and pull on my penis fifty times."

*****

A nun went into an off license and asked for a bottle of whisky. "Whisky?" the assistant asked, "I thought you nuns didn't drink!"

"We don't," the nun replied, "This is for the Mother Superiors constipation!"

She bought the whisky and left.

Later that night, the assistant saw the same nun drunk on a park bench and said "I thought that was for the Mother Superior's constipation?"

"It ish!" she replied, "When she sees me like this, she'll shit herself!"

*****

Man walks into a pub with a fried egg on his head. "Why have you a fried egg on your head?" asked the landlord.

The man replied "because boiled ones fall off."

*****

I think my wife might have a slight drinking problem; I asked her to toast some bread for breakfast and she raised her glass and said "Here's to bread!"

BEING FRANK ON FOOTBALL

Let me begin by wishing all Stun readers a very Merry Christmas and here's hoping for a very Happy New Year - regardless of which team you happen to support!

My wife and I have just come back from two months in Thailand and Laos, so excuses for my lack of activity of late, but this did not stop me watching most of the World Cup games, and following my beloved Ipswich via ifollow, which is a streaming network produced by the EFL official website. It means that for a hefty subscription, you can watch all the matches of the club you love, wherever you happen to be in the world.

I have been a glutton for punishment for many years watching them, but finally, this time around, the Tractor Boys remain in those automatic promotion places in League One at Christmas, and after four seasons in the third tier of English football, they could, at last, make headway. Their last home game against Oxford United attracted over 28,000 supporters, and that would be good enough to grace the Premier League these days, so things are certainly on the up!

In the Premier League, Liverpool are still struggling. After four wins on the bounce, they went down 3-1 to Brentford the other night and are struggling to gain momentum. Contrast that with their Merseyside rivals Everton and things do not seem so bad. Everton find themselves in the bottom three after a horrendous 1-4 defeat to Brighton at Goodison Park and the writing seems on the wall for under fire boss Frank Lampard.

Arsenal continue to lead from the front and are still five points ahead of the favourites for the title, Manchester City. Their win against Chelsea keeps the pressure up on the leaders and as Pep Guardiola alluded to, "Their troubles have only just begun!" There will be many bumps in the road and it is easier if you know what to expect but it is the tales of the unexpected that usually catch you out. City have done it before, many times, but the Gunners are learning along the way.

And now back to that World Cup! I was very pessimistic in advance of the tournament in Qatar, because I feared that it would effectively be a non-event, but with the notable exception of the host nation who were knocked out at the group stages, this international parade of the worlds best footballing talent was a delight to behold!

Not only were there lots of shocks at every stage of the tournament, but more goals were scored than at any other World Cup in the history of the game, and the final was arguably the most memorable ever!

Qatar ended with the rather dubious distinction of being the only country to host a World Cup and not earn a single point, but in fairness, expectations were so high and the pressure so great, that you could sympathise a little for the players and their head coach because it was almost inevitable that this would occur.

If we forget them for a while, and concentrate on the tournament itself, it was a fantastic event!

Who would have thought that the eventual winners of it would start with a 1-2 loss to Saudi Arabia - or that Morocco would overcome Spain! There were so many unlikely scenarios throughout the four weeks that most of the encounters kept me up until two in the morning, so that I could catch the late game! Sadly, in South East Asia, we were not blessed with a consumer friendly time-schedule but loving football as I do, I could not stay away from the action for long, and was often up all night glued to the TV!

The final looked to be going nowhere for 80 minutes as Argentina totally dominated proceedings but then France got that penalty and everything changed. From 2-0 to 2-2 in 187 seconds and suddenly it was game on again! Argentina did much the same against the Netherlands so it seems that when the opposition find a way to claw their way back into matches, panic sets in!

What a fabulous finale it was, and the perfect end to a near perfect tournament that I had seriously under-estimated. I doubt if I will ever witness another one of equal magnitude in my life time. At 67, I might not even witness another World Cup!

And before I leave - not this world but this column, the sad news that Pele has left us has been felt by everyone in the football community and beyond. He was a wonderful footballer and I will never forget that World Cup final in 1970, when he and his Brazilian colleagues trounced Italy 4-1! That was another World Cup final that lives long in the memory and for very good reason!

Oporto Xmas Party

After two winters in lock-down, it was great to experience a Café Oporto Xmas Party again, with lots of singing, dancing, drinking and I think I had to get a taxi home. Here are some of the photos I took on that wonderful night.
